Vicky Hull, The DIY Homeowner

Location: Saskatoon, SK, Canada

Age: 28

Work: Marketing Coordinator

Tech Comfort: Intermediate - uses multiple apps daily, active on Instagram & Pinterest

Core Values: Fun, interactive, experiences

Profile: Vicky recently bought her first home in a growing Saskatoon neighbourhood. She loves Bohemian design but doesn't want to spend a fortune on interior decorating. She enjoys tech tools that let her experiment with layouts and decor interactively. Vicky follows local design influencers and wants to create an Instagram-worthy home that reflects her style while being budget-conscious.

“Why settle for cookie-cutter rooms when I can play with every corner of my home and make it truly mine? I want an application that’s fun, visual, and keeps me inspired while staying on budget.”

Goals:

- Create a personalized, Instagram-worthy living space without hiring a designer
- Use fun, visual apps to explore and refine design ideas
- Shop easily for furniture and decor within her budget
- Stay connected to current design trends, both local and global

Pain Points:

- Limited access to high-end design services locally
- Wants a simple, enjoyable design experience without technical hassles
- Needs guidance to avoid poor design choices while maintaining control

How MetricLy Helps:

- Interactive mood boards tailored to her style and budget
- Ability to upload room photos and virtual floor plans
- Easy swiping and reshuffling of design ideas
- Access to curated local and global design trends

Scott Wilson, The Someday I Will Decorate Homeowner

Location: Seattle, WA, USA

Age: 35

Work: Office Manager

Tech Comfort: Moderate - uses phone and computer for work basics and online shopping occasionally

Core Values: Easy, approachable, curated

Profile: Scott bought his townhouse eight years ago but never decorated beyond the essentials. Walls are mostly bare, and furniture is mismatched. He's open to tech but prefers simple tools that guide him without a learning curve. He wants a space that feels cohesive, grown-up, and reflective of his personality.

“I’ve been living in this townhouse for years, but it still doesn’t feel like me. I just want a simple, step-by-step way to make it look finished and pulled together without getting lost in endless scrolling or complicated tools.”

Scott Wilson, The Someday I Will Decorate Homeowner

Goals:

- Finally make his house feel complete and inviting
- Find cohesive pieces that complement what he already owns
- Avoid complicated design tools
- Tackle decorating in small, manageable steps

Pain Points:

- Unsure how to start without feeling overwhelmed
- Gets lost in endless scrolling on furniture websites
- Doesn't know how to match pieces or choose colours confidently
- Hesitant to invest time in learning complex platforms

How MetricLy Helps:

- Guided, step-by-step room design with minimal tech learning
- Curated suggestions based on existing furniture and preferences
- Gives him confidence that the finished room will look good, cohesive, and well-designed
- Provides direct links to buy coordinated pieces all in one place

Becky Wilkerson, The Family Focused Homeowner

Location: Calgary, AB, Canada

Age: 45

Work: Nurse

Tech Comfort: Intermediate - comfortable with online shopping, Facebook, and mobile apps

Core Values: Practical, functional, family friendly

Profile: Becky has lived in her four-bedroom Calgary home for over 15 years with her husband and two teenagers (ages 15 and 17). Between her full-time job, school drop-offs, and hockey practices, she doesn't have much time to research endless design options or coordinate styles herself. The home is cozy but feels dated, and she wants to create a cohesive, welcoming space that blends durability with personality.

“I just want my home to feel warm and put-together without spending hours figuring out every detail.

Give me simple, practical options that look great and survive life with teens and pets.”

Becky Wilkerson, The Family-Focused Homeowner

Goals:

- Make her home feel modern and cohesive without sacrificing kid and pet-friendly functionality
- Choose furniture and decor that can withstand heavy use and still look good
- Simplify the design process with options that still reflect her taste
- Avoid spending weekends visiting multiple stores by using online solutions

Pain Points:

- Overwhelmed by too many online design choices
- Struggles to find Canadian sources for quality, family-friendly products
- Needs to balance style with practicality

How MetricLy Helps:

- Offers “family friendly” presets featuring durable, washable materials
- Generates cohesive, personalized designs tailored to her lifestyle
- Allows quick swaps for alternative pieces without starting over
- Connects her to Canadian vendors for faster delivery

Joseph Buchanan, The Interior Designer

Location: Toronto, ON, Canada

Age: 43

Work: Interior Designer and Business owner

Tech Comfort: Expert - multiple SaaS tools and design software daily

Core Values: Quality-focused, special, time-saving

Profile: Joseph runs a small interior design firm and works with multiple clients simultaneously. He needs streamlined, tech-forward tools that speed up sourcing and project management without sacrificing customization or quality. He values partnerships with exclusive vendors and tools that give him a competitive edge.

“I need tools that let me deliver polished, client-ready designs fast without cutting corners. Give me seamless sourcing, exclusive options, and smart shortcuts that save time and elevate every project.”

Joseph Buchanan, The Professional Interior Designer

Goals:

- Efficiently source and manage furnishings for client projects
- Quickly create and adjust design presentations
- Access exclusive vendor catalogs and bulk order discounts
- Use technology to reduce manual, tedious tasks

Pain Points:

- Frustrated by slow or disorganized product sourcing processes
- Needs better project management and collaboration tools
- Wants affordable access to premium design features

How MetricLy Helps:

- AI-powered product suggestions and quick reshuffle options
- Direct buying links and bulk discounts for clients
- Project management features in premium subscriptions
- Integration with vendor platforms for up-to-date inventories

Anne Lei, The Vendor Manager

Location: Vancouver, BC, Canada

Age: 38

Work: Vendor Manager

Tech Comfort: Intermediate - manages e-commerce and marketing platforms

Core Values: Selective, accessible, user-friendly

Profile: Anne works for a boutique furniture vendor aiming to expand online sales. She wants her products to be discoverable by design-savvy customers who appreciate quality and curated collections. She values a platform that makes integration easy and drives targeted traffic with high conversion potential.

“I want my collections to reach the right customers without endless manual updates or complicated tools. Showcasing my products in a smart, curated way should be effortless and effective.”

Anne Lei, The Vendor Manager

Goals:

- Increase product visibility to engaged, design-conscious users
- Showcase collections that align with current trends
- Simplify integration and management of online listings
- Boost sales through marketing and suggestions

Pain Points:

- Difficulty standing out in a crowded online marketplace
- Complex, time-consuming listing and updating processes
- Challenges tracking customer preferences and behaviour

How MetricLy Helps:

- Features vendor products in AI-driven, personalized design recommendations
- Drives traffic from engaged users who want curated, trendy items
- Streamlines product listing and updates through integration
- Provides data insights to inform marketing and inventory decisions

Daniel Felton, The Real Estate Stager

Location: Dallas, Texas, USA

Age: 26

Work: Real Estate Stager

Tech Comfort: Intermediate - comfortable with software for work, not a tech hobbyist

Core Values: Effortless, time-saving, results-driven

Profile: Daniel helps runs a home staging business. His clients are real estate agents who expect fast turnarounds and polished results. Physical staging is costly and time-consuming, so Miguel is looking for reliable virtual solutions to stage multiple homes simultaneously without sacrificing quality.

“I need to make every listing look its best without the cost and hassle of moving furniture around. Give me fast, realistic virtual staging that impresses clients and sells homes.”

Goals:

- Virtually stage homes quickly to help listings stand out
- Customize staging to match each property's target buyer profile
- Reduce costs of physical inventory and transportation
- Present clients with realistic, appealing visuals

Pain Points:

- Traditional staging eats into profits
- Difficult to scale without increasing expenses
- Some virtual staging tools feel outdated or unrealistic

How MetricLy Helps:

- Allows quick scanning and uploading of property photos
- AI-generated room designs tailored to property style and demographics
- Simple edits and swaps to fine-tune designs per listing
- Direct shopping links for clients who want to purchase staged items
